News from the Linguistic Society of America

Update #121 -December 21, 2017

Sponsored Conference Announcement:

Cross-disciplinary Conference on Family and Healthy U

University of Pittsburgh, March 28, 2018

This one-day cross-disciplinary conference around the topic of family and health will focus on the central role of the family as a fundamental building block of society. Family is often the foundation of determining a healthy (or unhealthy) lifestyle for all family members. Family narrative and dynamics, gender identity, kinship and social organization, race, literacy, household income, and sociolinguistic background represent the early input children receive and shape the construction of identities, roles in society and expectations and values. They affect the earliest experiences which impact our health. Read the conference announcement and Call for Papers.

Second Title in LSA/Routledge Book Series Published

The LSA is pleased to announce the publication of a second title in its book series partnership with Routledge: Language and Meaning, by LSA member Betty Birner. Aimed at undergraduate students with little or no prior knowledge of linguistics, this book is essential reading for those studying this topic for the first time. A portion of the royalties from the sale of this book benefit the LSA. Order your copy today.

LSA Approves Policy on Civility

The LSA Executive Committee (EC) has approved a Civility Policy drafted by a working group headed by EC members Penelope Eckert (Stanford University) and Sharon Inkelas (University of California, Berkeley), based on input from LSA principals and relevant committees. The Civility Policy outlines expectations for all those who attend or participate in LSA events, with special focus on the importance of professional academic ethics and norms, and reminds them that all forms of incivility and harassment are considered by the LSA to be serious forms of professional misconduct.
