Update #132 - June 18, 2018

Contribute to the LSA's Newest Journal!

The LSA is delighted to welcome Phonological Data and Analysis (PDA) to its family of publications. The journal will publish articles that are particularly rich in primary, substantive data. Appropriate submissions will use elaborated data sets to document sound patterns in individual languages, with or without a formal analysis; or draw typological conclusions from a carefully assembled cross-linguistic database; or explore probabilistic generalizations in corpora; or examine and elucidate the assumptions of phonological theories; or test phonological predictions with
