LSA Announces New Mentoring Award

The LSA is delighted to announce an addition to its roster of Honors and Awards: the LSA Mentoring Award. This award recognizes the work of individuals who, or organizations that, have exhibited a sustained commitment to mentoring linguists. Particular emphasis will be placed, when considering nominations, on mentoring a diverse pool of mentees; sustained mentoring efforts over many years; and mentoring of early career linguists. The LSA's 2019 Linguistic Institute at the University of California, Davis Begins Monday, June 24

2019 Linguistic Institute
University of California, Davis

From the Institute's Co-Directors, Georgia Zellou and Raul Aranovich:

We are excited all the Institute participants and instructors will be joining us in Davis shortly! We and our staff are ready to welcome you and help you settle in for the month. Olson Hall is ready for everyone to start their courses, and the instructors are busy putting the final touches on their syllabi. We hope everyone is excited about the next four weeks of intense learning and intellectual stimulation: we certainly are! If you are coming to the 2019 Institute, please familiarize yourself with our website, which contains details about events and activities occurring during the Institute.

We look forward to making this a phenomenal Institute!

LSA Member Input Needed: Documenting the Value of DEL

LSA President Brian Joseph recently sent a letter to the National Science Foundation concerning proposed changes to the Documenting Endangered Languages (DEL) program. To supplement this letter, the LSA's Committee on Endangered Languages and their Preservation (CELP) is collecting (via this form) – some “sound-bite moments” demonstrating the value of documentation, and especially instances that emerged out of a DEL grant; such examples would allow us to develop a compelling “narrative” that we can put before the NSF about the value of DEL and as an answer to the question of “Why document endangered languages?” Submit your “sound-bite moment” here.
