Longtime LSA Editor Steps Down After Six+ Years of Service

Megan Crowhurst, a founding Co-Editor of the LSA's journal, Phonological Data and Analysis (PDA), and the former Senior Associate Editor of our flagship journal, Language, concluded her term earlier this month. The LSA wishes to thank Dr. Crowhurst for her dedicated service to the LSA over these many years, which has been invaluable in advancing our publishing program. In particular, she helped ensure a smooth transition for PDA as it moved from being a section of Language to becoming a free-standing independent journal of the LSA. Crowhurst was recently inducted as a Fellow of the LSA, and was featured in an LSA Member Spotlight in 2016. Read more.

SALT Satellite Workshop to Explore Equity and Inclusion

The day before this year’s SALT conference, there will be a two-hour satellite workshop on making teaching in Semantics and Pragmatics more inclusive and equitable, with an eye
(1) making the content of semantics classes more inclusive, including syllabus revisions and example data from a broader range of source languages and language varieties; and (2) making the style of pedagogy more inclusive and welcoming to all students. The forum will include an optional final hour to facilitate unstructured discussions among attendees.

Registration is free, via the main SALT conference registration form, and registered participants will receive a link to the virtual event. ASL interpretation may be requested during the registration process.

In Memoriam: Pieter Muysken (1950-2021)

The LSA regrets to announce the death of longtime member Professor Pieter Muysken, a talented and well-known sociolinguist who contributed to several fields of linguistics, and especially the study of pidgins, creoles, and mixed languages. A member of the LSA since 1980, Pieter died on April 6, 2021, after a long battle with an aggressive form of cancer. He was a Life Member of the LSA and contributed frequently and generously to the LSA General Fund. Pieter also served as an Associate Editor for the LSA's flagship journal, Language, from 2014-2016.
