Bloomfield and Zwicky Awards Announced

Nadine Grimm Awarded Bloomfield Book Award

The LSA congratulates Nadine Grimm for her 2021 book A Grammar of Gyeli. Although she is still a junior scholar, the author has shown remarkable success in documenting the Ngóló variety of the Bantu language Gyeli.

The work is based on 19 months of research in Cameroon. During that time, the author conducted 170 hours of elicitation, recorded and transcribed natural texts, conducted stimulus-based research and experiments, took acoustic measurements, and used questionnaires to conduct surveys.

Rusty Barrett Awarded Arnold Zwicky Award

The Committee on LGBTQ+ [Z] Issues in Linguistics (COZIL) and the LSA Executive Committee are pleased to announce that Dr.
Rusty Barrett is the LSA’s 2023 Arnold Zwicky Award recipient.

Dr. Rusty Barrett is a world-renowned sociolinguist and linguistic anthropologist at the University of Kentucky. His research areas are primarily in Mayan languages and in language, gender, and sexuality.

COZIL is pleased to recommend Dr. Barrett for the Arnold Zwicky Award. He has a vision of what we—linguists, scholars, educators—can be if we consider exactly what it means to understand others.

New Episode of Subtitle: Where Did African American English Come From?

Are the roots of African American English mainly African? Or English? Or something else? Linguists—and others—don’t agree. Ciku Theuri guides us through the theories. Opinions from Nicole Holliday, John McWhorter, John Rickford, and Sunn m’Cheaux, whom we also profiled in a previous Subtitle episode.

New Podcast Launch from the LBA SIG
The Linguistics Beyond Academia Special Interest Group is pleased to announce the launch of a new podcast devoted to linguists who work outside of academia titled “Linguistics CareerCast.”

Linguistics Careercast is a podcast devoted to exploring careers for linguists outside academia. We feature interviews with linguists in industry at all stages of their careers: recently graduated, mid-career, and some with 30+ years of industry experience. These career linguists represent tech, marketing, UX, research, data analysis, translation, speech pathology, content creation, and much more. We also host audio content from the Linguistics Career Launch, held in the summer of 2021. These audio tracks are taken from videos posted on our Linguistics Career Launch YouTube Channel.

In Memoriam: Joseph Malone

We are saddened to share the news of the death of Dr. Joseph Malone, a long-time LSA member, and distinguished linguist and professor at Columbia University and Barnard College, on September 24, 2022. Dr. Malone was the author of numerous linguistic papers and books, including The Morphological Development of the Classical Aramaic Verb and Tiberian Hebrew Phonology, as well as poetry, short stories, and translations. He even wrote a poem in Gaelic—about Brooklyn!—and published it in Feasta, an Irish Gaelic magazine.
