The recipient is Chikari Tisso who distinguishes himself for his long-term commitment, immense contribution, successful collaboration with linguists and high respect by the community.

Chikari Tisso has been selected as the recipient for this year’s Excellence in Community Linguistics Award due to his almost four-decade long “immense, zealous, relentless and selfless contribution” to document the Karbi language and culture, a Sino-Tibetan language spoken in central Northeast India. The duration and breadth of his efforts, his strong and ongoing relationships with a team of linguist partners and academic institutions, as well as the high respect held for him by his community, have resulted in an impressive number of publications and the recent support by the Firebird Foundation. He has driven the projects he has been involved in and is known to be a “dedicated, hardworking and genuine activist to promote the Karbi language and literature” with an “immense knowledge of Karbi oral history, linguistic traditions, and cultural practices” in addition to being “a respected mentor to the local youth and students”.

Eight of you having voted in favor; 11/16/2020

9. Proposal for Social Media: posted 11/03/2020

Goals and Objectives of the LSA’s Social Media Program

The LSA’s current Strategic Plan and an earlier Strategic Communications Plan, both adopted by the Executive Committee, place strong emphasis on educating and informing the interested lay public about linguistic research and related aspects of linguistic inquiry. The LSA’s social media program is a key element of this plan, and has built a large following (43K on Facebook and 28K on twitter) by posting a range of items about language and linguistics in the news.

A prior question is whether a presence is even needed that does more than just make announcements of LSA business. If social media posts were restricted to just such announcements and did not further offer “Language/Linguistics in the News” sorts of posts, there would be little or no cause for concern. However, there are good reasons for thinking that the newsy posts are potentially useful; in particular, if done right, they can be a way of drawing positive attention to the Society, making the Society’s presence better known to a wide audience of followers, and they can serve a useful educational function. The plans proposed here presume that there is value to such posts and thus a value to finding the best way to vet them properly before posting.

10. Approval of COZIL Pronoun Statement:

After discussion, this document was returned to COZIL with a request that it be cut back and more sharply focused.

11. Policy on Confidentiality

Electronic deliberations of the LSA Executive Committee (EC), via the private online discussion group, email list servs or similar electronic conduits for communication, are restricted to those explicitly included on any distribution lists or permission lists. Postings to any channel of this type are not to be shared outside the group for any reason without the express permission of the entire group.

The deliberations of the EC while in Executive Session are also restricted to those explicitly invited to participate in such deliberations. For this reason, no minutes are taken during these sessions. Any decisions made in Executive Session must be ratified in open session and recorded in the minutes. Once the minutes have been reviewed and approved by the EC, they are posted to the members-only area of the LSA website for information purposes and as part of the official LSA archive.

5. Appointment of Task Force on Media Resources and Task Force on Professional Conduct, including slate of members for each.

Approved unanimously, 27 July 2020

The Task Force published and distributed a survey to gather information and opinions about the current state of professional conduct among linguists, and possible interventions in the case of misconduct. A summary of the 366 responses to this survey appears in an appendix to this report.

The concerns that emerged in the survey almost all involve power relations. We emphasize that the effects of power inequalities are intensified by the extreme vulnerability of younger linguists in the current academic economy. The LSA’s goal of supporting the field of Linguistics, therefore, entails above all providing serious and sustained support for students and early career linguists. To this end, we recommend a set of measures to ensure the maintenance of professional conduct by raising awareness, providing support, and directly addressing problems as they arise.

1. Members' Advocate: The Executive Committee should designate a person knowledgeable about the LSA to be available throughout the year to respond to questions or concerns from members who need help navigating the organization. In cases where those concerns are not informational but involve some kind of misconduct, the Advocate will refer the member to the Safe Space Group.

2. Safe Space Group: The Executive Committee should constitute a group of senior linguists to serve as a resource for people who feel they have been the target of misconduct. We recommend that a certain number of members of this committee be selected on the basis of nominations from junior LSA members. Its functions will be:
   a. Providing confidential support, advice and resources, but not direct intervention.
   b. Maintaining a confidential record of the situations that arise, reporting regularly to the Executive Committee and the membership on the patterns that emerge.
   c. Referring any events that they consider egregious to the Executive Committee for potential action. Survey respondents, especially younger, more vulnerable respondents, overwhelmingly support the need for sanctions in such cases. Recognizing that scholarly societies do not have the means to pursue some kinds of sanctions in a just and legal manner, we recommend that in each case the Executive Committee appoint a small ad hoc committee of some of its members, with perhaps additional appointees, to determine appropriate action.
   d. Designating at least one senior linguist (where possible a member of the Safe Space Committee) to be present at LSA functions, including Institutes. This person will be available to deal with problems as they arise and report all developments to the Safe Space Committee.

3. Measures to maintain a constructive atmosphere at LSA events include:

1 We define senior linguists as those who are sufficiently secure in their careers to be able to take justified actions without fear of reprisal. We define junior linguists as all others.

2 See, e.g., the recent statement by the American Anthropological Association.
a. Reminding people at the beginning of all LSA events to read, and abide by, the LSA code of conduct.
b. Designating a Safe Space representative (see 2d).
c. Providing session chairs with a script to read at the beginning of the question period, instructing questioners to give their names and setting out norms for asking questions in a constructive manner.

4. Promote constructive, non-abusive reviews: Survey respondents of all ages complained of abusive, even ad hominem, reviews of journal submissions and grant applications. We recommend that:
   a. The editors of Language and possibly other LSA journals, determine the role of editors in these cases, and develop guidelines for guaranteeing constructive reviews.
   b. The LSA then reach out to the editors of other Linguistics journals to consider the same measures.
   c. The LSA organize workshops and/or webinars on how to write constructive reviews – not only of publication and grant submissions, but of routine student work as well.
   d. In response to the confusion caused by differences between lab and humanities cultures in the ordering of author names, we suggest that the editors of Language develop a formal policy to clarify author roles.

5. Organize regular workshops, trainings, and webinars to promote conduct consistent with the values espoused by the LSA. Possible examples include:
   a. Best practices on social media.
   b. Best practices in departmental governance.
   c. Writing constructive reviews
   d. Bystander intervention.

6. Provide support for finding jobs outside of academia: Employment insecurity is a major contributor to anxieties felt by early career linguists. Linguistics departments can support students seeking academic jobs, but it is up to the LSA to provide support in the wider job market. We recommend that the Executive Committee, in consultation with the Linguistics Beyond Academia SIG, develop a range of activities to support linguists interested in non-academic jobs.

7. Launch a social media initiative:
   a. Younger members engage intensively with social media. It is essential that the LSA shift social media from the periphery, finding ways to use social media for a broader discussion of linguistic-related topics.

Many of the problems arising from inequality are shared across fields, certainly across the humanities and social sciences. In addition to the above, we recommend that the LSA work with other organizations (e.g. COSSA) to examine and work on issues of power and its abuse that are not specific to Linguistics.

Comments on the Civility Policy document.
There is a good deal of objection to the use of the term civility. We recommend that this document be renamed, perhaps simply Standards of Professional Conduct. The statement should also be more aspirational, not focused exclusively on avoiding abuse. It should include a statement about the need for sensitivity to power differentials, and the importance of defending academic freedom and freedom of speech. This coincides with additional requests that we be more specific about behavioral norms. Several people observed that our list of vulnerable people is incomplete. We recommend that any such list be replaced by “any aspect of a person’s identity or group membership”.
Appendix: Survey Results by respondent age group (older = over 40). Unless indicated otherwise, percentages do not include null responses.

I. Amendment for the Establishment of a Parliamentary-Ombud

SIMPLIFIED SUMMARY:

This amendment reorganizes the long vacant position of Parliamentarian as both an advisor to the Executive Committee on administrative and procedural matters and as an ombudsperson for the general membership of the society.

MORE SPECIFIC EXPLANATION:

In the past, Presidents appointed Parliamentarians to assist with the organization of the annual Business Meeting. However, the position has long been left vacant and is now ostensibly defunct. This amendment reorganizes the position of Parliamentarian to act as both an administrative advisor to the Executive Committee and as an Ombudsperson to the general membership. This reorganization seeks to solve several problems: (1) general unbiased access to administrative knowledge and expertise by the membership, (2) an initial point of contact for complaints against administrative bodies or persons within the society, and (3) an observer to ensure that the LSA's administrative bodies follow proper procedures or standard practices and policies (e.g., to make sure the EC does not make unilateral decisions it does not have the privilege to make without a vote by the general membership or that such decisions are at least communicated clearly to the general membership). By design, the Parliamentarian would act as a universal reference for the business of the LSA and could direct members to appropriate resources and/or take appropriate actions on their behalf, if necessary.

FULL TECHNICAL PROPOSAL:

Delete from §1 of Bylaws Pursuant to Article VI: The President may appoint a Parliamentarian for the Business Meeting at the Annual Meeting of the Society. The Business Meeting shall be conducted in accordance with procedures determined by the Executive Committee and announced in the Annual Meeting Handbook.

Add §5 to Bylaws Pursuant to Article III: There shall be a Parliamentarian who shall serve as both the administrative advisory to the Executive Committee and as the Ombudsperson to the general membership of the society. The Parliamentarian shall be entitled to participate in meetings of the Executive Committee without vote and shall assist in the organization of the Annual Business Meeting upon request of the President. They shall be nominated by the Nominating Committee for election by the general membership and shall serve a term of five years. In their role as Ombudsperson, it shall be solely their responsibility to investigate and mediate complaints made by members of the society against the administrative bodies and persons of the society.

Add “The Business Meeting shall be conducted in accordance with procedures determined by the Executive Committee and announced in the Annual Meeting Handbook.” to Article VI §1.

II. Amendment for Calling a Constitutional Convention

SIMPLIFIED SUMMARY:

This amendment creates a process by which a substantial number of members may propose a convention at which the constitution, bylaws, procedures, and policies of the society may be reviewed and revised. This would essentially make the path to change swift and direct.

MORE SPECIFIC EXPLANATION:

This amendment stipulates a process by which the general membership may direct the Executive Committee to organize a Constitutional Convention (a special meeting of the Society, see Article VI §2). This would allow for a last resort action if and when the society becomes substantially dysfunctional or ceases to operate in a manner consistent with its own mission and mandate. This amendment provides a fairly high bar for submitting the proposal (100 member signatories) but also demands a quick turn around with the option for either a virtual convention or physical convention in conjunction with the Annual Meeting. The convention would ostensibly follow the standard parliamentary procedure for such a meeting, although the EC would still retain the right, in cooperation with the Parliamentarian, to stipulate the procedures of the meetings so long as they are published well enough in advance of the meeting.

FULL TECHNICAL PROPOSAL:

Add §2 to Article VIII: “In the case that the members of the society may wish to conduct a review of and substantially revise the constitution and bylaws of the Society, a Constitutional Convention may be proposed by a petition submitted and signed by one hundred members of the Society. A proposed Constitutional Convention will be submitted to the members for vote at the time of receipt of the petition. To become effective, a proposed Constitutional Convention must receive the approval of two-thirds of those members voting. If the proposal passes, the Executive Committee in equal cooperation with the Parliamentarian shall be obliged to organize a Constitutional Convention as a special meeting of the

b. Amendments Related to the Office of Secretary:

The Treasurer shall be the Chief Financial Officer of the Society.” And Renumber the following section to §6.

Amend references to “Secretary-Treasurer” in Article IV §4 to “Treasurer”.

Amend reference to “Secretary-Treasurer” in §1 of the Bylaws to Article V to “the Treasurer”.

IV. Amendment Increase Frequency and Transparency of EC Meetings

SIMPLIFIED SUMMARY:

This amendment seeks to change the formal policies and mechanisms of the Executive Committee’s meetings, as listed in the Constitution and Bylaws, to make them more transparent and accessible to the general membership. It also eliminates minor obstacles to participation by members who would otherwise not have the right to speak at these meetings.

MORE SPECIFIC EXPLANATION:

This amendment seeks to change the formal policies and mechanisms of the Executive Committee’s meetings, as listed in the Constitution and Bylaws, to make them more transparent and accessible to the general membership by mandating an increase in the frequency of the meetings, moving responsibility for reporting the ongoings of the EC to the new Secretary position, and requiring virtual formats for meetings. It also eliminates a minor obstacle regarding who can invite people to speak at EC meetings: formerly, only the President could invite someone to participate in EC meetings; with this new language, any member of the EC can invite any member of the society to take part and participate (without vote) in EC meetings, even those that are more restricted (e.g., special meetings to discuss a complaint, someone presenting a new initiative or proposal for consideration, etc.).

FULL TECHNICAL PROPOSAL:

Delete “shall have at least one additional meeting each year” from Article IV §1.3 Regarding Executive Committee Meetings and replace with “shall have at least two additional meetings each year, of which the latter two must provide virtual formats for observation and participation by the membership of the Society”.

Amend Article IV §1.5 to read as “All acts of the Executive Committee must be reported to the Society. This shall be the responsibility of the Secretary.”

Amend the second sentence of §1 of Bylaws pursuant to Article II to read as “Any member of the Executive Committee may invite other appropriate individuals to attend and participate at the Executive Committee without vote.”

V. Amendment to Reorganize the Student Representative EC Position

SIMPLIFIED SUMMARY:

This amendment reorganizes the Student Representative position on the EC by expanding it to three seats, in staggered three year terms, and by stipulating that student representatives must be nominated and elected by student members of the society.

MORE SPECIFIC EXPLANATION:
For some time now, the student representative to the LSA’s Executive Committee has not been nominated or elected by students. Rather, this position was filled by the Bloch Fellow, who is selected by an all non-student subcommittee of the Committee on Linguistic Institutes and Fellowships and who serves a two year term. This has not prevented the occasional student from serving on the Executive Committee as an Executive Committee Member, but such cases have been the exception to the rule. This amendment simply removes the Bloch Fellow from serving ex officio as the student representative to the EC, expands the positions to three student representatives serving staggered three year terms to account for the relative size of the LSA’s student membership, and stipulates the process by which these representative may be nominated and elected solely by student members.

FULL TECHNICAL PROPOSAL:

Delete “a student member who serves for two years” and replace it with “three student members serving staggered three year terms” in Article IV §1

Delete §4 of Bylaws Pursuant to Article IV: “The Bloch Fellow, selected by the Committee on Linguistic Institutes and Fellowships, shall serve a two-year term as the student representative on the Executive Committee. The Bloch Fellow’s term begins at the spring meeting of the Executive Committee and runs for two years from that date. The Bloch Fellow shall also serve as a member of the Committee on Student Issues and Concerns (COSIAC) for the duration of the term of service on the Executive Committee.”

Add new §4 of Bylaws Pursuant to Article IV: “The student representatives to the Executive Committee must be nominated either by themselves, being in good-standing as a student member of the society, or by another student member of the society. They are to be elected by a vote of the student membership of the society.”

VI. Amendment to Change Nomination Process for VP/President-Elect

SIMPLIFIED SUMMARY:

This amendment expands the minimum required number of nominees submitted by the Nominating Committee for election to the position of VP/President-Elect from one candidate to two. This amendment seeks to make elections to the LSA Presidency more democratic.

MORE SPECIFIC EXPLANATION:
For some time, LSA elections have only ever included one nominee for the office of Vice President, ostensibly giving the membership no choice on who is elected to that position. The problem being that the President, with the approval of the Executive Committee, appoints the Chair and members of the Nominating Committee, who then in turn are responsible for and directed to nominate only a single person to the position of Vice President/President-Elect, who then in turn appoints the new Chair and new members of the Nominating Committee, with approval of the Executive Committee, when they assume the position of President two years after their election. Therefore, this amendment seeks to make elections to the LSA Presidency more democratic at a minimum.

FULL TECHNICAL PROPOSAL:

Amend the first sentence of Article IV §2.1 to read as “The Nominating Committee shall nominate two people for the position of Vice President and two for each vacant position on the Executive Committee.”

PDA has published five articles during the period April 20 – December 20, 2020. One of the new articles is a data report that launches our “Puzzles and Problems” section, and another is a reply to one of the three primary articles. We have had seven new submissions since May, and have five older submissions at different stages of the publication process. We are currently planning a special, thematic issue for which we will solicit contributions on stress. We have begun to more actively promote the journal on social media and email lists distributed to linguists.

Executive Summary: APLC was less active in 2020 than in previous years due to the pandemic. But it continued to work on tasks supporting the long-term goal of presenting a successful AP course proposal to the College Board. At present APLC is focusing its efforts on creating AP Linguistics precursor courses in US High Schools. Key elements of this “High School Linguistics Initiative” include:

1. Identifying HSs & teachers interested in offering a HS linguistics course.
2. Identifying US Linguistics programs willing to partner with a local HS teacher in offering a HS linguistics course.
3. Providing training & support for teachers interested in offering a HS linguistics course, including workshops, curricula, texts, courses, etc.
4. Publicizing Linguistics to HS students and to the general public to create broader interest.
Accomplishments during this reporting period:

RE: (1&2)
In 2020 LSA and APLC Chair Richard Larson continued to receive a steady stream of email inquiries about the AP Linguistics from university & college faculty, graduate & undergraduate students, HS teachers & HS students. Many of these inquiries were expressions of general interest, but some inquired how to launch a linguistics course or linguistics club in a local school.

APLC member Anne Lobeck, together with LiSC chair Kristin Denham, maintain a list of US HSs that either have offered, or are currently offering, a HS Linguistics course. APLC’s AP- Ling mailing list now comprises 170 individuals.

In Spring 2020, spearheaded by APLC member Brian Joseph, OSU’s Department of Linguistics launched a HS Linguistics collaboration with Metro Early College School (MECS), a Community STEM School adjacent to the OSU campus. An intro linguistics course was co-taught at MECS by Carly Dickerson, a Ph.D. student in Linguistics, and Angy Bernthold, the foreign language teacher at MECS. Concurrently, the OSU Linguistics undergraduate organization (charmingly titled “Underlings”) began and supported a HS Linguistics Club at MECS. The full OSU report can be access here.

RE: (3)
Workshops: Unlike in previous years, APLC was unable to organize workshops for HS teachers in 2020, either virtually or in person. This was the result of the COVID19 pandemic, which placed extraordinary time demands on educators across the country and imposed sharp limitations on in-person gatherings.

Curricula: APLC was able to continue work on its online curriculum guide project, initiated in 2019, which is intended to assist for HS teachers in planning and offering a HS course that will align with eventual AP Ling content standards. The guide will comprise content modules, each with a specification of themes, essential vocabulary, essential ideas, classroom, activities, assessments and resources. The modules were determined by a 2018 LSA LiHEC survey, which identified 9 key content areas covered by US college level intro courses:

- 5 “core” areas covered by virtually all such courses (Syntax, Morphology, Phonetics, Phonology, Semantics)
- 4 “high priority” areas covered by a large majority of such courses (Pragmatics, Sociolinguistics, Language Acquisition, Historical Linguistics).

APLC’s work in the curricular area, together with reflection on the way the College Board designs its AP courses and the different subject matter backgrounds of US HS Linguistics teachers, has led to a substantial rethinking of the broader introductory linguistics curriculum, which is rapidly developing into a separate new initiative by APLC members Richard Larson and David Lightfoot: “Rethinking Intro Linguistics”. Larson and Lightfoot hope to report on this initiative to APLC and the LSA EC soon. They believe their results will be of wide interest to the LSA membership.

Book Series: APLC members Lori Repetti and Richard Larson successfully launched a new book series through Oxford University Press: Linguistics through Languages (LTL). LTL will be a series of compact free-standing introductions to linguistics, each using a different major world language as the primary language of illustration. The languages for which LTL volumes are being produced are the 8 languages for which there is currently either AP or A-levels courses and exams + Korean; i.e., Spanish, French, Italian, Latin, German, Russian, Mandarin, Japanese and Korean. LTL volumes are not “Introductions to the Linguistics of Language X” volumes. Rather they are introductions to linguistics, each using a different language to illustrate the key concepts.

The LTL series responds to requests APLC has received from World Language teachers interested in HS Linguistics, who want an introduction to the core analytical concepts of linguistics. LTL will introduce linguistics through the languages these teachers deal with day-to-day. Hopefully, the books will lead these teachers to incorporate linguistics into their language teaching and will assist them in teaching a HS linguistics course one day.

RE: (4)

Summer Camp: From 10-21 August 2020, Stony Brook University conducted a two-week Summer Youth Camp in Computational Linguistics Summer (SYCCL). SYCCL was offered through Stony Brook University’s Institute for Advanced Computational Sciences (IACS), which also oversees SBU’s NACLO program.

https://calendar.stonybrook.edu/site/iacs/event/summer-youth-camp-for-computational-linguistics-syccl/

Due to the pandemic, the camp was conducted online, and attracted 10 participants (5 from Long Island, 2 from MA, 1 from CT, 1 from NJ and 1 from NC). The program was highly successful and IACS intends to offer SYCCL next summer, probably in a virtual format.

SYCCL was inspired by OSU’s Summer Linguistics Institute for Youth Scholars (SLIYS), which recorded its best attended camp to date in summer 2020, with 70 students participating virtually. APLC hopes that other US university linguistics programs will consider hosting their own summer linguistics camps in the future.

Book Series: APLC members Richard Larson and Anne Lobeck, together with David Adger (Queen Mary College) are in the process of launching a new book series through Cambridge University Press: Cambridge Introductions to Language Science (CILS). CILS will be a series of compact brief, accessible introductions to some specific topic in the science of language outside of what would be covered in a standard HS introduction to linguistics course. Some titles will address specific content areas, some will discuss the role of language science in the human world, some will be historical, some biographical. The model for the series is the Anchor Science Study Series, produced from 1960-70 and authored by eminent scientists with the goal of introducing young persons and lay readers to physical science. Candidate CILS titles include: Language & Technology, Disorders of Language & Speech, Speech Recognition, Forensic Linguistics, The Mathematics of Language, Language and Artificial Intelligence, The Biology of Language, Reclaiming Lost Languages, Animal Communication, The Evolution of Human Language, The Multilingual Brain, The Science of Writing Systems, Gesture and Language, The Literate Brain.

The editors have informal approval from CUP of the series proposal and are soliciting proposals for the first two series titles. We are very hopeful this series will stir the interest of young scholars and prove useful to teachers in supplementing a HS Intro Linguistics course.

APLC Goals for 2021: Continue and expand efforts in the HS Linguistics initiative in the areas identified above. Specifically:

2. Increase HS Linguistics presentations by our teachers at national and regional teachers conferences, either in person or virtual.
3. Continue to identify US Linguistics programs willing to partner with local US HSs and provide support.
4. Expand teacher training and support opportunities through:
   - OUP’s Linguistics through Languages series,
   - A possible grant to the NSF to develop on-line Introduction to Linguistics course for teachers to be available to K-12 teachers who are members of the LSA.
   - Exploration of state certification of HS teachers in Linguistics
5. Publicize the HS Linguistics Initiative more widely in the linguistics field through:
   - expanded corporate sponsorship to APLC’s High School Linguistics project to include Microsoft and Amazon.
   - possible LSA Teacher of the Year Awards for our field’s top Introduction to Linguistics teachers at undergrad and K-12 levels. The awards event would include a session in which winners give presentations sharing their materials and methods.
6. Begin development of measures to assess linguistic attitudes and “linguistic thinking,” and how these change from the beginning of the year to the end for HS students enrolled in a linguistics course. (Amy Plackowski)

Linguistic Society of America
Committee Report

Date: December 23, 2020

Committee name: Audit Committee

Committee charge:

The Audit Committee is charged with selecting the auditing firm to perform the annual LSA audit, reviewing the Society’s engagement letter with the selected firm, considering the draft financial report and management letter, and presenting a report and recommendations to the Finance Committee and the Executive Committee at their meetings in conjunction with the Annual Meeting.

Committee chair: Carol Genetti

Committee members: Sandra Chung, Monica McCauley, Marlyse Baptista

Executive Summary:

The Audit Committee reviewed the financial documents and auditor’s report and found them to be clear, consistent, understandable, and appropriate. We were pleased to see that the LSA finances are so well tracked. We recommend that the audit be presented to the finance committee.

Accomplishments during this reporting period:

Review of audit documents; meeting with Alyson Read and representative of auditing firm.

Goals for the remainder of the reporting period: None.

Goals for the next year: Continue with normal review of audit documents.

Action Items (including specific requests for endorsements of approvals by the Executive Committee at its forthcoming meeting)
We recommend that the finance committee forward the audit to the Executive Committee.

Report:

The Audit Committee was presented with the audit documents on Wednesday December 16th and met on Monday the 21st. We also had the opportunity to view an informative YouTube webinar with Alyson Reed and Bill Ladusaw that provided an excellent overview of the Audit Committee’s work.

The Independent Auditor’s Report stated that “the financial statements...present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Linguistic Society of America on September 30, 2021 and 2019.” After reviewing the documents provided, the committee agreed with this assessment. A few questions were raised and answered. These included:

- The increase in the website as an asset; this was due to added functionality
- The increase in the accumulated depreciation and amortization; this was due to the changes in the website
- The loan from the U.S. government through the Paycheck Protection Program, which is split into both current and long-term liabilities (however, it is likely to be eventually forgiven)

Members also had questions about the overall financial state of the LSA, which was described as “dire.” It was clear from the ensuing discussion that the Directorate has done extensive cost-cutting. A recommendation was that the LSA explain why unrestricted gifts would be especially welcome at this time.

Overall, it is clear that the LSA Directorate, working with Beth McMaster, have continued their excellent financial accounting practices and the committee voted unanimously to present the audit to the Finance Committee.
In the report they submitted at the end of 2019, the Baker Award Committee (Jane Grimshaw of Rutgers University, Stephen Wechsler of the University of Texas at Austin, and James McCloskey of the University of California Santa Cruz) expressed satisfaction with the outcome of the process which led to the presentation of the first award at the Annual Meeting of January 2020. However, the report also addressed a serious concern:

It is perhaps to be expected that in the initial year of the award the flow of nominations would be relatively slight. However we think that on the next occasion on which the award is to be made members of the committee should take a proactive role in spreading word about the award and in soliciting nominations – by writing to chairs in particular, announcing the award, stressing how straightforward the nomination process is, and encouraging them to consider nominating a colleague or encouraging others to submit a nomination.

During 2020, the principal topic the committee had to consider was how to proceed towards the second award with this concern in mind. Discussions about that question began before the pandemic surged and continued as the seriousness of the crisis became more evident. We reported (via email to the directorate on May 12th 2020) that it was the sense of the committee that it would be, on the whole, advisable to run the second cycle of nomination and assessment in 2021 rather than in 2020. The committee revisited the question in September of 2020 (following a request from the LSA directorate) and reached the same conclusion, but with more conviction and clarity. That conclusion was reached on the basis of the following considerations:

- From the time of the earliest discussions (beginning in late 2018), it was unclear whether the Baker Prize should be awarded every year or every other year. Part of the remit to the first committee was to consider that question and offer some advice. Even in the absence of a pandemic, it was clear that there were both financial and operational reasons for considering or preferring the second option.
- One of the principal goals in all of the committee’s discussions has been how to ensure that we have a strong pool of nominees to choose among. That is why we developed the plan (set out in our final report for 2019) to do large-scale outreach to departments and department-heads, starting, crucially, well before the nomination deadline, encouraging people to nominate strong candidates from among their colleagues. Our judgement in September was that there was no way to do that crucial preparatory work at that point in the year, especially in the context of the disruptions, distractions, and extra work that many are dealing with because of the pandemic.
- So both long-term structural considerations and short-term pandemic-related considerations played a role in leading the committee to their recommendation.

All members of the committee are willing to continue in the role and all look forward to bringing renewed energy and commitment to the solicitation and selection process in 2021.

Committee Report

Date: 23 December 2020

Committee name: LSA Centennial Planning Committee

Committee charge:

To plan and assist with activities conducted during the observance of the LSA’s Centennial in 2024, in consultation with the Secretariat and the Executive Committee.

Committee chair: Brian Joseph

Committee members:

Stephen Anderson, Molly Diesing, Alyson Reed (representing the LSA), David Robinson (representing the LSA), Margaret Thomas, Sally Thomason, Tracey Weldon-Stewart

Executive Summary:

The Committee has continued its work, though on a somewhat limited basis because of the attention to other more pressing matters for the LSA and for the world.

Accomplishments during this reporting period:

Until the pandemic hit and changed everything, 2020 was looking to be a good year for the Centennial Planning Committee. The LingStoryCorps initiative at the annual meeting in New Orleans was a great success, with about 40 new stories collected from a diverse group of people, and plans were being laid to make it a regular part of the annual meeting going forward. In principle, the slowing of activity in all sectors after March due to the Coronavirus might have meant more time to mobilize interested parties to record stories via phone calls and Zoom calls and the like, but the need to work on other more pressing business for the LSA derailed the Committee Chair’s attention and having to adjust to a new way of working and living made it hard to maintain the momentum from the success of the annual meeting. We can try to re-start things in 2021, not at the virtual annual meeting but in a more concerted effort to collect impressions, stories, observations, and the like from LSA members.

Other developments with the Committee to report on included adding Stephen Anderson to the Committee; he volunteered and with his knowledge of the history of the field and his experience with the LSA, it was felt that he would be a valuable addition to the roster; the Executive Committee approved him for the Committee in May.

We also learned definitively (though this may have been in 2019 – I honestly do not remember) that staging an event in 2024 or 2025 at the American Museum of Natural History in New York would be prohibitively expensive. So plans for some sort of event in connection with the annual meeting in New York in the centennial year then will have to be more creative.

Finally, the Committee supported the proposal to create an “In Honor Of” fund-raising campaign for the LSA (see https://www.linguisticsociety.org/post/action-item-approval-new-fundraising-program) as it seemed to be a campaign that could have a natural tie-in with Centennial events.

Despite the relative inactivity on the part of the Committee in 2020, we are fortunate in that there is still a lot of time before the Centennial and thus a lot of time in which to get this show going once again.

Goals for the remainder of the reporting period:
None

Goals for the next year:

1. Convening a meeting of the Committee by no later than early Spring
2. Continuing with brainstorming up other plans for the Centennial
3. Working on re-starting and expanding the Story Corps initiative

Action Items (including specific requests for endorsements of approvals by the Executive Committee at its forthcoming meeting)
None

Committee name: Committee on Ethnic Diversity in Linguistics (CEDL)

Committee charge: Recognizing that some ethnic and racial minorities in the United States are significantly underrepresented in the linguistics workforce and in the membership of the LSA, and that it is in the interest of the field of linguistics and of American society to be enriched by the participation of all its ethnic groups, the LSA established a Committee on Ethnic Diversity in Linguistics. Its principal charges are:

1. Helps the Society and the profession identify, publicize, and implement ways of improving the recruitment, retention, and professional development of linguists from underrepresented ethnic minorities.
2. Makes recommendations to the Society and the profession concerning ways in which full equality of opportunity can be provided to all who seek to study, teach, or conduct research in linguistics.

The Society acknowledges the wide range of ways in which the term 'ethnic minority' may be interpreted. The Committee's work is directed to those groups which are clearly underrepresented at all levels in the linguistics workforce relative to their numbers in the US population. Such groups include African Americans, Native Americans, Hispanic Americans, and Americans from a variety of Asian and Pacific Islander backgrounds. The activities of the Committee are not limited to any stipulated set of such groups but are aimed at increasing access to and diversity within the field on a broad basis.

Executive Summary:
With the exception of the Awards and Nominations subcommittee, none of the standing subcommittees reported any activity during this reporting period. While COVID undoubtedly played a role in the lack of activity reported by the subcommittees, the larger committee is encouraged to consider whether this organizational structure is an effective way of operating going forward.

In spite of the challenges of the past year, CEDL was able to make progress on several fronts over the last few months, including the launching of a new CV database project, representation on two key LSA taskforces, the creation of a “members only” listserv, and the awarding of twenty-four CEDL registration grants.
Accomplishments during this reporting period:

1. In conjunction with the LSA staff, CEDL launched the CV database project this past fall (https://www.linguisticsociety.org/news/2020/03/17/lsa-launches-new-diversity-cv-database). The primary goal of this project is to help search committees identify more diverse pools of applicants for job openings at their home institutions.

2. In light of a series of events this past summer that magnified the various racial/ethnic inequities in our society and in our discipline, CEDL convened a special meeting on July 13th to discuss how the organization might meet the demands of the moment. Twenty-seven members participated in the virtual meeting. Among the concerns expressed in this meeting were the following:

   a. As an organization, how do we balance our commitment to “intellectual freedom and personal responsibility” with our expressed opposition to “racism, misogyny, and other forms of hate”?
   b. What is the role of an LSA Fellow? Of a media expert? Are they seen as representing the views of the LSA? Of the field itself? (How) can we tease apart these perceptions/expectations?
   c. What procedures are in place for revoking someone’s status as a Fellow or media expert? Note: If no standard procedures are in place, the Executive Committee (EC) is urged to establish some.
   d. (How) can we protect graduate students, junior faculty, and other vulnerable scholars who take a public stance against powerful figures in the field from retaliation and alienation? What risk do CEDL members (and members of other committees) face in taking the lead on such polarizing issues? What protections, if any, can they be afforded?

   A letter expressing these concerns was shared with the Executive Committee and a request was made that the CEDL co-chairs be appointed to the two LSA taskforces being set up to address these concerns. Both co-chairs have actively participated on these taskforces over the last several months. The reports of each taskforce are forthcoming.

3. Following a specially-held meeting on October 19th between members of the Executive Committee and the leadership of CEDL, COSWL, and COSIL to discuss some operational concerns, a CEDL “members-only” listserv (lsa-cedl-membersonly@lsa.simplelists.com) was set up to provide CEDL members a method of communicating with one another without the inclusion of the LSA leadership. The original CEDL listserv (lsa-cedl@lsa.simplelists.com), which includes the LSA leadership representatives, will also remain active.

4. While the financial constraints of this past year did not permit the LSA to fund any CEDL initiatives, a generous donation made to CEDL this year allowed the committee to award twenty-four CEDL registration grants to students attending the virtual LSA meeting this year. The awardees were selected by members of the Awards and Nominations subcommittee. The names of the awardees will be announced soon.

Goals for the remainder of the reporting period:
The 2021 LSA Black Linguists Dinner will be held virtually. A special thanks to Nicole Holliday for agreeing to serve as the new organizer this year. And a special thanks to Sonja Lanehart for her years of service in organizing this event.

Goals for the next year:
TBD at the upcoming LSA meeting

Action Items (including specific requests for endorsements of approvals by the Executive Committee at its forthcoming meeting)
TBD following the upcoming LSA meeting
Committee name: Finance Committee

Committee charge: The Committee shall have the responsibility for recommending fiscal policy to the Executive Committee and for overseeing the financial affairs of the Society. The Committee shall meet at least twice each year in conjunction with the meetings of the Executive Committee.

Committee chair: Lenore Grenoble

Committee members:
- Brian Joseph
- Marianne Mithun
- Larry Horn
- John Baugh (incoming)
- Alyson Reed, ex officio

Executive Summary: The committee is scheduled to meet on December 29, preceding the January 2021 meeting of the EC, with all members in attendance. Carol Genetti, chair of the Audit Committee, is unable to attend but will provide a written report to accompany the audited FY20 Financial Statements. The primary goal of the meeting of the Finance Committee is to review the Society’s proposed budget amendments for FY21.

Accomplishments during this reporting period: Review of the budget, with decisions to make some cuts due to the projected budget deficit.

Goals for the remainder of the reporting period: Continue to monitor the budget and explore ways to generate revenue.

Budget Review:
We have been closely monitoring the budget this fiscal year due to the financial crisis caused by the covid-19 pandemic. As a reminder, in reporting on the last fiscal year, we are reporting on the time period October 2019-September 2020.

- Due to a major projected deficit for FY21, we authorized the following cuts:
• Staff Benefits (pension, insurance, etc.): Benefits were reinstated in December 2020 when we reassessed the budget

• Committees
• Stipends and Honoraria (editorial, Secretary-Treasurer, Publications Advisor)
• Honors and Awards
• Memberships in Coalitions/Advocacy: COSSA, ACLS, NHA, JNCL
• Liability Insurance
• Sponsorship of North American Computational Linguistics Open Competition (NACLO)
• Further reductions by more than half were made to expense lines for the LSA websites, financial services, IT support, and other administrative functions.

For full details, see the Secretary-Treasurer’s Report

The staff have prepared a set of proposed amendments to the FY21 budget, essentially consolidating the worst- and best-case scenario columns considered earlier this Summer into one single proposal. This is accompanied by data on the first two months of actual income and expenditures for FY21, along with year-end actuals for FY20. In the end, we finished FY20 with an operating deficit of approximately $15K, which is in line with what we projected in the approved budget. This does not include the PPA loan, which is likely to be forgiven once the LSA submits its application early in 2021. This loan provided an important cash flow cushion to cover lost income from membership dues and meeting revenue which would normally accrue during the Summer and Fall. The staff budget proposal for FY21 includes a projected operating deficit of $21K, but retains most of the cuts referenced above, with the exception of selected staff benefits, the intern stipend, and the CEDL registration awards.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY:

The Committee on LGBTQ+ [Z] Issues in Linguistics spent the greater part of 2020 building upon its foundational work in the years prior to its foundation, strengthening its membership pool and following up on several longstanding projects. This year was of course a difficult year by multiple accounts to begin the work of a new committee, but COZIL was able to successfully fulfill its responsibilities to the society and the membership through the maintenance of longstanding programs, advisement on issues of interest to COZIL’s charge, and development of new initiatives that benefit both the LGBTQ+ linguistics community specifically as well as the discipline more widely. Building from our work this year, we have also attached five proposals/requests for the EC’s consideration.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS DURING THIS REPORTING PERIOD:

COZIL's major accomplishments this year include:
- The fulfillment of a longstanding initiative to develop a Language Guidelines Proposal for the Executive Committee, which is being reworked by the relevant subcommittee following feedback.
• Formalizing a liaison relationship with the Lavender Languages and Linguistics at the Florida Atlantic University and the Lavender Languages Conference held biennially in the United States.
• The collaborative development of a Summer workshop and webinar series at member institutions which saw a total of 600 live participants. *Note: Preliminary exit survey data suggests indicates that the majority of participants were not members of the LSA but were members of the LGBTQ+ linguistics community. A report is being prepared for the Secretariat and should prove insightful.
• COZIL once again coordinated with the Secretariat for Pride Month programming via social media and web post creation.
• COZIL coordinated in the development of a series of LGBTQ+ History Month Posts which were unfortunately lost in the social media troubles that the LSA faced in the latter part of 2020.

GOALS FOR THE REMAINDER OF THE REPORTING PERIOD:

GOALS FOR THE NEXT YEAR:
COZIL is currently developing organized session proposal for the 2022 Annual Meeting of the LSA and is continuing to work towards to maintenance and development of longstanding projects including Pride Month and LGBTQ+ History Month social media posts and programming, improved recruitment of LGBTQ+ linguists to the society, and the furtherance of LGBTQ+ diversity within the society. Notably, next year will witness the first Lavender Languages and Linguistics Institute held in collaboration with COZIL, at which a number of LSA members have been invited to teach courses and at which COZIL will be organizing a half-day professionalization workshop for LGBTQ+ postgraduates. A number of initiatives for next year relate to the proposal below, and so depend on their reception, and are also dependent upon the due course of an ongoing amendment initiative. We also aim to work towards the improvement of LGBTQ+ membership data collection and the development of new programs consistent with our charge in collaboration with CEDL, COSWL, and Natives4Linguistics.

ACTION ITEMS: (including specific requests for endorsements of approvals by the Executive Committee at its forthcoming meeting)

I. INCOMING CHAIR AND CO-CHAIR NOMINATIONS

1) The Committee on LGBTQ+ [Z] Issues in Linguistics (COZIL) requests the following change to its organizational structure regarding committee chairs and co-chairs. Specifically, COZIL proposes to move to having three (co-)Chairs in staggered three-year terms with each nominee serving as the Incoming Co-Chair, Chair, and Outgoing Co-Chair in the first, second, and third years of their appointment respectively. COZIL also proposes that the Outgoing Co-Chair of each year should assume ex officio the LSA Delegate position to the Lavender Languages and Linguistics Institute and to the Lavender Languages Conference. With this tri-partite structure, COZIL expects to secure a seamless continuity of leadership while maximizing workload distribution and committee internal communication. Aside from the following appointments newly consistent with this improved system, COZIL will submit Chair nominations consistent with this structure annually for three-year terms.

a) With respect to the above proposal, COZIL nominates Tyler Kibbey (Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin) as Outgoing Co-Chair of COZIL for 2021.

b) With respect to the above proposal, COZIL nominates Archie Crowley (University of South Carolina) as Chair of COZIL for 2021 and Outgoing Co-Chair of COZIL for 2022. With respect to their work for the committee during 2020, COZIL requests that Archie Crowley also be retroactively recognized by the Executive Committee as Incoming Co-Chair of COZIL for 2020.

c) With respect to the above proposal, COZIL nominates Chris VanderStouwe (Boise State University) as Incoming Co-Chair of COZIL for 2021, Chair of COZIL for 2022, and Outgoing Co-Chair of COZIL for 2023.

II. AWARD AND AWARD COMMITTEE PROPOSAL

1) In accordance with the Committee on LGBTQ+ Issues in Linguistics’ charge - to aid the society and profession in the improved recruitment, retention, and professional development of LGBTQ+ linguists; to make recommendations to the Society and the profession concerning ways in which full equality of opportunity can be provided to all who seek to study, teach, or conduct linguistics research; and to advocate for inclusive practices at the Society’s events - we submit a proposal for the creation of an annual award recognizing the scholarly contributions and achievements of LGBTQ+ linguists, named in honour of (likely the first) openly-gay LSA President Arnold Zwicky.

   a) The Zwicky Award would recognize LGBTQ+ linguists who have made significant contributions to the discipline, the society, or the wider LGBTQ+ community through research, programming, activism, public service, or significant publications in LGBTQ+ linguistics, focusing on but not exclusive to work done in the prior year.

   b) The establishment of an LGBTQ+ specific LSA award is patently mandated by COZIL’s charge in that such improves the recruitment and retention of LGBTQ+ linguists in the society and profession through the explicit legitimization and elevation of their work and identity, constitutes an easily-implemented recommendation to the Society and the profession concerning ways in which full equality of opportunity can be provided to all who seek to study, teach, or conduct linguistics research, and manifestly constitutes an inclusive practice which might be easily undertaken by the society to advance LGBTQ+ equality within the society and the discipline.

2) We concurrently propose the establishment of a Zwicky Award Committee to develop the criteria, submission-related materials, and fundraising initiative for the award, with the committee chair and members being appointed by the Executive Committee, upon the recommendation of COZIL, and made eligible for such an appointment by having previously served as COZIL Chair or EC Liaison. Given that COZIL was only recently founded, making the pool of eligible members incredibly small, we would like to recommend that the inaugural committee members be agreed upon as a separate matter. The Zwicky Award Committee would submit a nominee recommendation for the award to the Executive Committee for approval in advance of the annual meeting at which said award is presented.

a) Given the current financial situation of the LSA, we ask that the award be approved without an accompanying monetary award but also that the Zwicky Award Committee should be directed to revisit the possibility, internally and externally, for funding a monetary award supplement semi-annually.

III. ONLINE-ONLY SECTION OF LANGUAGE

COZIL is writing to propose the establishment of a temporary online-only section of Language dedicated to LGBTQ+ Linguistics research. I will begin with the proposal itself, followed by its rationale and arguments in favour of the proposal. On behalf of COZIL, I write to propose the establishment of a temporary online-only section of Language dedicated to LGBTQ+ Linguistics. The online-only section would be established for a 10 year period following its establishment and would have a senior and a junior co-editor. After an initial 10 year period, the continuation of the section should be reviewed with the following three outcomes, assuming it has fulfilled its primary mission, delineated below: (1) it should be renewed for another set period of time as an online-only section, (2) it should transition to being a separate and distinct journal on the topic of LGBTQ+ Linguistics, or (3) it should be dissolved. We propose that the first senior associate editor appointed be Jeremy Calder and that the junior associate editor be Lex Konnelly, with the former focusing on content and quality while the latter focuses on the day-to-day operations of the section. The mission and scope of the section would be to publish original, high quality scholarship in the area of LGBTQ+ linguistics research, broadly defined, including works concerning theory and methodology as well as practical case studies.

The rationale and arguments in favour of the proposal are as follows. First and foremost, there is no technical barrier to LGBTQ+ Linguistics research being published in Language except that no one working in LGBTQ+ Linguistics knows they are able to or otherwise believes it worthwhile to submit their research to Language on account of the journal’s public, conservative reputation. The primary purpose of this proposal, for the first 10 years of its establishment, is to alleviate this issue and rehabilitate the journal Language in the eyes of LGBTQ+ linguistics and linguists. While this type of scholarship could be included in Language presently, that fact does little to accommodate the issue concerning LGBTQ+ Linguistics researchers feeling that Language is not the right venue to submit their research to. A brief period in which a targeted online section would recruit such submissions to and explicitly build a space for such research at the journal would solve this issue in the most immediate sense. After its initial period of operation, the section could then be renewed for another set period of time or transition beyond the online-only section, either being properly subsumed by the journal or spinning off to create its own. The online only section would be in minimal competition with the handful of other journals already established on the subject, specifically the Journal of Language and Sexuality (John Benjamins), Gender and Language (Equinox), and Women & Language (MTU).

IV. REQUEST FOR NOMINEE POOL CLARIFICATIONS

1) The Committee on LGBTQ+ [Z] Issues in Linguistics (COZIL) would like to formally request that the Executive Committee and its Subcommittee on Committee and Delegate Appointments clarify the current state of closed or invitation only committees with respect to but not limited to nominee pools, nomination or invitation processes, required nominee qualifications, and whether or not such committees, including the Executive Committee and its Subcommittee on Committee and Delegate Appointments, seek recommendations from committees representing marginalized communities within the discipline (i.e. COZIL, CEDL, COSWL, & Natives4Linguistics) prior to new appointments or have established formally or informally any guidelines relevant to LGBTQ+ diversity within the administrative structure of the society.

2) COZIL requests the following, detailed clarifications for all closed and invitational committees, even those that may appear obvious to the interested member, preferably in the form of an holistic document that can be shared amongst committee chairs:

   a) Nominating Committee
   b) Program Committee
   c) Finance Committee
   d) Audit Committee
   e) Advisory to Programs
   f) Awards Committee
   g) C.L. Baker Award Committee
   h) Bloomfield Book Award Committee
   i) Elizabeth Dayton Award Committee
   j) Honorary Members Committee
   k) Linguistics Institutes and Fellowships Committee & Fellowship Subcommittee
   l) Local Arrangements Committee for the Annual Meeting
3) COZIL further recommends that the Executive Committee pursue the development of a policy whereby such closed and invitation-only committees are strongly encouraged to work with committees representing marginalized communities (i.e. COZIL, CEDL, COSWL, & Natives4Linguistics) to ensure that slates of nominees/invitees and new appointments are reflective of the discipline’s diversity. Understandably, this may be more or less practical depending on the committee and its charges & responsibilities. COZIL requests that the Executive Committee and its Subcommittee on Committee and Delegate Appointments consider such a policy and report their discussion on such to the general membership in advance of the 2021 call for nominations.

V. LGBTQ+ STUDENT TRAVEL GRANT PROGRAM CONCEPT PROPOSAL

In the discipline of Linguistics and within the LSA, members of the LGBTQ+ community are underrepresented. One of the best ways to strengthen this community’s representation in the LSA is to support the attendance of LGBTQ+ student members at the Annual Meeting. To that end, COZIL proposes a Student Travel Grant program to parallel the CEDL Travel Grant program. The program would offer grants of $500 to four students (grad or undergrad) each year, to offset the travel and accommodation expenses of attending the LSA Annual Meeting, so that the student members can become active in the LSA’s work. This program would be modeled on and operate in parallel with the CEDL travel grant program.

Request

COZIL requests that the Executive Committee consider our proposal in two stages:

1. Approve the creation of the COZIL Student Travel Grant program.
2. Fund the program with an initial recurring line item of $2000/year (four awards at $500 each)

We understand that it is an exceptionally challenging budget year for the LSA, which is why we’ve separated out request into two parts. If it should be impossible for the EC to fund the Travel Grant program, approving its existence would open the door for COZIL to engage in strategic fundraising efforts to fund the program outside of the LSA’s annual budget.

Review of papers and posters for the LSA Annual Meeting

i. The LSA sent out a call for abstracts with a deadline of June 25, 2020, 11:59PM, EDT

ii. There was a call for reviewers to sign up for reviewing abstracts; the PC chairs also wrote to scholars in their own networks to encourage them to sign up as reviewers. A total of 212 subfield experts signed up to review abstracts in addition to the Program Committee members.

iii. Recognizing the impact of the COVID19 pandemic on research projects, scholars were asked to submit additional context informing the PC/reviewers if their data collection had been adversely impacted by the pandemic.

iv. Each abstract meeting submission guidelines was assigned to three reviewers with external reviewers evaluating a maximum of 15 abstracts.

v. Ratings were normalized, averaged, and ranked.

Submission details for the 2021 Meeting

i. We received a total for 427 abstracts. (cf. 533 submissions for New Orleans 2020; 786 for New York 2019). We believe that the number of submissions was lower this year due to the uncertainty and possibly anticipated financial stress caused by the pandemic.

ii. 381 submissions were considered for papers and 361 for posters (many abstracts were considered for both formats).

iii. 132 papers and 180 posters were accepted following the usual protocol, for acceptance rates of 35.2% and 49.9% percent respectively. The overall acceptance rate was 73.07%, comparable to the acceptance rate for the New Orleans meeting in 2020.
Selection of Organized Sessions

i. A call was sent out for organized session proposals with deadline of May 15 2020.

ii. There was a total of 18 organized session proposal submissions, which were all evaluated by the Program Committee.

iii. Each session was evaluated by three PC members and the senior chairs then read through all proposals.

iv. 15 (16) proposals were accepted for inclusion in the Annual Meeting Program for a total of 34.5 hours of programming time.

Minicourses

The Program Committee co-chairs invited 4 proposals for minicourses.

i. Methods in collaborative and community-centered language documentation (Eric Campbell, UCSB)

ii. Neural Networks and Linguistic Structure: A Tutorial (Khalil Iskarous, USC)

iii. Running Web-Based Experiments (Judith Degen and Sebastian Schuster, Stanford University)

iv. Teaching Hybrid and Fully Online: Best Practices in Course Development and Delivery (led by Karen Adams, Arizona State University, and others)

Thoughts on the transition to virtual planning and the virtual meeting in 2021

COVID19 posed unique challenges as we prepared for this year’s meeting. The primary one was that the decision to hold the meeting virtually could not be made until October 2020. Additionally, while the abstract assignment and reviewing went relatively smoothly, the process of creating a program through virtual meetings led to many more wrinkles than we had anticipated. Assigning papers/posters to sessions became more complicated and the task of ensuring that all papers had been organized less transparent and more drawn out (in comparison to the very efficient in-person protocol that the PC has always had). This is just something to plan for in case the virtual format continues for next year.

The (completely unavoidable) delay in making the decision to transition to an in-person meeting meant that presenters felt uncertain about the arrangements they needed to make for potential travel as well as for presentation. It also led to a delay in determining the mode of presentation for talks and posters. The spreading of poster presentations across multiple thematic poster sessions rather than concentrating all posters in two plenary sessions, with time for individual “lightening-talks” is a format that we hope will work for this virtual meeting. We will be monitoring this particular part of the program closely to see what we can learn about the attendance and participation in these sessions (in case a virtual format needs to be adopted for future meetings).
