

Dear Colleagues,

As part of our program of periodic reminders and updates for LSA members, please see the announcements -- grouped by category -- below. I would like to draw your attention to several time-sensitive issues, which you can read about in more detail below:

- Registration for the LSA's 2011 Linguistic Institute has been extended through July 5.
- The LSA is asking its U.S. members to write their representatives in Congress by mid July to help save linguistics funding for the NSF, which is under threat.
- Abstract submission for the 2012 LSA Annual Meeting, which will take place in Portland, Oregon from January 5-8, is available online through July 31.
- Nominations for the majority of the LSA's Awards – the Early Career Award, the Kenneth L. Hale Award, the Linguistic Service Award, the Linguistics, Language, and the Public Award, and the Victoria A. Fromkin Lifetime Service Award – are being accepted through July 1.
- The Slate of Candidates for at-large members and officers of the LSA's Executive Committee is available for viewing at <http://lsadc.org/info/lsa-candidates-2012.cfm>. Write-in nominations are being accepted through July 6.

2011 LINGUISTIC INSTITUTE, UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO AT BOULDER

If your interest is sociolinguistics, phonetics, syntactic theory, semantic theory, morphology, acquisition, field linguistics, language preservation, lexicography, conversational practice, corpus linguistics, computational linguistics, psycholinguistics or practically any other aspect of the field, the 2011 Linguistic Institute, to be held July 7-August 2, 2011 at the University of Colorado at Boulder, has a course for you. Take advantage of the extended deadline (registration available through July 5) and spend a summer in one of the most beautiful spots in the US, interacting in small classroom settings with preeminent linguistic scholars from around the world. A wide variety of workshops, on everything from crowd-sourcing technologies to the interactional foundations of language, will be open to you as well. To get a feel for the offerings of this rich and multi-faceted Institute, check out 'The Many Faces of Linguistic Institute 2011' at <http://verbs.colorado.edu/LSA2011>!

1/manyfaces.html. Registration FAQs and links are available at <https://verbs.colorado.edu/LSA2011/registration-faq.html>, and much additional information is available on the Institute's Facebook Page at <http://www.facebook.com/pages/Linguistic-Institute-2011/100832506678014>.

For more information on any aspect of the Institute, write to lsa2011@colorado.edu. Its attentive staff will help you plan your Institute experience, whether you plan to enroll as a student or a professional affiliate.

If you are unable to attend the Institute yourself, please consider a tax-deductible donation to the LSA's Financial Assistance and Student Support Fund, which helps provide student fellowships for the Institute. You may make a donation online at <http://www.lsadc.org/secure/payment/paycontributions.cfm> or you may download a printable contribution form at http://www.lsadc.org/info/pdf_files/donationform.pdf.

FEDERAL FUNDING FOR LINGUISTICS UNDER THREAT

Funding for the NSF Directorate on Social and Behavioral Sciences (SBE), which includes Linguistics, is under threat. The LSA is asking its members to weigh in with their congressional representatives. A letter from former LSA President and former head of the SBE Directorate David Lightfoot is available at <http://www.lsadc.org/info/june22reNSF.pdf> and explains what you can do to help.

2012 ANNUAL MEETING AND CALL FOR ABSTRACTS

The 86th Annual Meeting of the Linguistic Society of America will take place from 5-8 January, 2012 at the Hilton Portland & Executive Tower in Portland, Oregon. Over 300 individual papers and posters will be presented at the meeting in addition to organized sessions, professional development sessions, student-themed events and a student lounge, job interviews, awards, and, of course, all-important networking with colleagues and friends. The LSA has negotiated a conference guest room rate of $99/night for a single or double room; online hotel room reservations will be available in September.

Abstracts for papers and posters for the 2012 Annual Meeting may be submitted online between June 1 and July 31. For more information about abstract design and submission and links to submit an abstract, see <https://lsadc.org/info/meet-annual12-abguide.cfm>.

NOMINATIONS FOR LSA AWARDS DUE JULY 1

The Linguistic Society of America (LSA) is accepting nominations for several of its awards through July 1. These awards are:

- the Early Career Award, given for a new scholar who has made an outstanding contribution to the field of linguistics;
- the Kenneth L. Hale Award, for outstanding linguistic scholarship undertaken by a junior or senior scholar that documents a particular endangered or no longer spoken language or language family;
- the Linguistic Service Award, for distinguished service to the Society and the discipline;
- the Linguistics, Language, and the Public Award, for a body of work that has had a demonstrable impact on the public awareness of language and/or linguistics; and
- the Victoria A. Fromkin Lifetime Service Award, for individuals who have performed extraordinary service to the Society and the discipline throughout their career.

To nominate yourself or a colleague for any of these awards, send an e-mail to lsa@lsadc.org by the July 1 deadline with the words "2012 Award Nomination" in the subject line. Other details, including nomination requirements for the specific awards, are available at <https://lsadc.org/info/lsa-awards.cfm>. Note that individuals must be current members of the LSA in order to be considered for one of these awards. The awards will be presented during a ceremony preceding the Presidential Address in Portland on Saturday, January 7.

SLATE OF CANDIDATES FOR 2012

The Nominating Committee of the LSA has submitted a Slate of Candidates for LSA Officers and at-large Executive Committee members for 2012. The Slate of Candidates may be viewed at <http://lsadc.org/info/lsa-candidates->

2012.cfm. Additional nominations may be submitted through July 6; instructions are given at the page linked above. The final slate of candidates will be submitted to the membership for online voting beginning in September 2011.

-Other LSA Resources-

Several LSA members have recently received such honors as election to American Academy of Arts and Sciences, a Humbolt Research Fellowship, and Canada's prestigious Killam Prize. Read more in the "Laurels to Linguists" section at www.lsadc.org. If you would like to have your own or someone else's achievement mentioned, please e-mail lsa@lsadc.org.

The LSA Ethics Discussion Blog provides an opportunity for you to contribute to the ongoing discussion on this important topic. Check out this blog and the LSA's other interactive resources at <http://www.lsadc.org/info/res-interactive.cfm>.

The LSA accepts job advertisements online, in print, and at the Annual Meeting. If you are interested in advertising a job position, please e-mail Rita Lewis at rlewis@lsadc.org.

The LSA maintains listings of conference announcements, grant opportunities, in memoriam notices, and other news items of interest. To submit a listing, e-mail lsa@lsadc.org.

The LSA maintains an online depository of syllabi, exercises, handouts, and other pedagogical documents at <http://lsadc.org/e-learning/admin/index.cfm> (Login to LSA website required).

The LSA administers an online Book Exchange for individuals wishing to donate or request linguistic books or other materials. More information is available at <http://www.lsadc.org/book-exchange/>.
